The Concealed

AUTHOR of this Excellent

POEM.

When Dryden's Tuneful Celebrated Muse
Did God-like David for her Subject Choose,
She soar'd above her known and common Height,
To Heav'n she rais'd her Voice, to Heav'n she took her flight.
Such is your Muse's Subject, such her Tongue,
Witness the Polish'd and Melodious Song:
Where the same Majesty of Verse;
The same just stile, the same deep Sense appears.
No Jest nor Puns deform the studied Page,
But all his Manly Thought and Noble Rage;
But all along the mighty Genius shines,
Informs and animates the sacred Lines.
Not Heav'nly Horace more correctly writ,
Tho' to refine his Sense united met,
The Critick's Judgment, and the Poet's Wit.

To the Unknown AUTHOR of the Incomparable P O E M.

FACTION DISPLAY'D.

O Matchless Genius ! Whose exalted Lays
Transcend my humble and unequal Praise.
Not fam'd Apelles Pencil could express
The Beautious Heav'n of Cythera's Face ;
Nor any Art your Muse's Image draw,
Who what she is, like Light, her self can only show.

Let other Poets, in untuneful Verse,
Or Delia's, or Lardella's Charms rehearse ;
Let Songs and Sonnets be their humble Choice,
Let them conform their Subjects to their Voice.
But your refin'd, your more extended Thought
(With Judgment, Wit, Experience, Learning fraught)
Pursues a Loftier Theam, a Nobler Height,
And Fathoms all the Secrets of the State ;
Displays the Wily Arts of Humane-Kind,
How Faction sows the Blood, and gnaws upon the Mind.

Strong and Majestick does your Stile appear,
Your Notions weighty, your Reflections clear.
With nicest Art, you turn each Polish'd Line,
To make your Darling Celsus in full Lustre shine.
But oh ! In what a moving Strain you Mourn
O're the belov'd Marcellus sacred Urn,
Mingling the sweetest Joy with the severest Grief,
Like the fam'd Spear, at once you Wound, at once Relieve.

'Twas Harmony (as Learned Antients thought)
The Nat'ral World to Form and Order brought ;
And may your Heav'nly ever Tuneful Lays,
(Make all our Factions, our Divisions cease)
Charm and Compose the Moral World to Peace.

TO THE READER.

TIS the Criticks Objection to Lucan, that his Poem is too Historical; but it must be said in his Defence, that tho' for that Reason he may perhaps delight less; yet he certainly instructs more, which is the better end of Poetry. We have a more distinct Idea of the Characters of Cæsar, Pompey, Cato, and Brutus, in him, than we have of Augustus (under the Person of Æneas) in Virgil. We have Truth and Nakedness in one; Fiction and Embellishment in the other. The same Fault (I beg Pardon for the Allusion) will probably be found with this Paper of Verses: But I have this to say for my self, that tho' I may fall as far short of some of the Whig-Writers in Poetry, as Lucan does of Virgil, yet I have outdone them as much in Sincerity. For I have not form'd an Imaginary Poetical Design, but described a real one: Such a one as is now actually carrying on by the restless and turbulent Spirits of some Men, even in the very place where I have laid the Scene.

If then what I have said be true, and the Sense of the honest part of the Kingdom, the Reader cannot think any Liberty I have taken Reflecting or Scandalous; for Truth is never so, tho' it maybe sometimes Unseasonable. But he must own that I have acquitted the Duty of a good Subject, in endeavouring to lay open the Enemies of our Constitution. A Constitution whose Government is Projected upon a more refined Policy, and experienced Wisdom, than any in the World. Other Countries labour under the Bondage of Arbitrary Princes, or more Arbitrary Commonwealths. But here the Prerogative of the King, and the Liberty of the Subject are a mutual Barrier to each other; and it is not the Fault of our Constitution, that we are not the Envy, as well as the Terror of our Neighbour Nations. But Faction is of the growth of our Soil; and what some Philosophers have affirmed of the frame of the Universe, that it subsists by the constant Jarring of the Elements, and that there is a perpetual Warfare in Nature, may properly be said of the present State of England. For it is Compounded of so many obstinate Sectaries and inveterate Parties, that they are no more to be Reconciled than the differing Principles in Nature, and are like to continue their Disputes too to the End of the World.

Nothing contributes more to the Fomenting these Civil Embroilments, than a Set of Mercenary Writers, who, like Swiss-Soldiers, are always ready to fight on the Side that pays best. And as none has labour'd more, so none is more Scandalous than a certain Doctor, who after having Scribbled himself, and that simple Wretch his Son, into Preferment, has lately appear'd in his proper Colours, and unsaid what he formerly urg'd with so much Vehemence and pretended Zeal for his Country's Good. Trimming was then an Abomination to him, and one would hardly have thought that Tom Double had been his own Character: but we now plainly see what his Aim was. This Cerberus resolv'd to continue Barking, till his Mouth was stopped with some Delicious Morsel, which has at last happily compos'd his Fury into Peace and Moderation. We are like to be well instructed indeed, when such Men as these pretend to give us Schemes of Morality and Government, when they undertake to direct our Principles, and guide our Consciences. Sure he has a very contemptible Opinion of Mankind, or a very great one of himself, to imagine, that because he was Read with Pleasure, when he fell in with the Peoples just Resentments of the Proceedings of a Devouring Ministry; that he can therefore impose his own shuffling, inconsistent, unintelligible Politics upon them. What was Reason and Justice then, will be so still in sight of all the Poor Arguments he can bring to the contrary; and if he had had the least agree of Modesty, he would either have persued his former Notions, or have been silent.

But such a Cause could expect no better an Advocate, and those who imploy'd him to propose and recommend their Trimming Measures (which always proceed from Cowardize, or Self-interest) have the Mortification to see him receiv'd with that Contempt he deserves from all Parties.

I wish the Promoters of this new Doctrine of Moderation have not already put it out of their power to Curb the Faction, which they have hitherto so imprudently cherish'd, and which at last (if I have not Display'd it in very false Colours) will certainly Tear and Destroy the Government.

SAY, Goddess Muse, for thy All-searching Eyes
 Can Traytors trace thro' ev'ry dark Disguise,
 Can penetrate Intriguing Statesmen's Hearts,
 Their deepest Plots, and all their wily Arts.
 Say, how a fierce Caball Combin'd of late,
 T'employ their anxious Thought t'embroil the State;
 What angry power inspires 'em to Complain
 In Anna's Gentle and Propitious Reign.

Faction, a restless and repining Fiend,
 Curdles their Blood, and gnaws upon their Mind.
 Off-spring of Chaos, Enemy to Form,
 By whose destructive Arts the World is torn,
 She taught the Giants to attempt the Sky,
 And Jove's avenging Thunder to defy.
 She rais'd the Hand, that struck the Fatal Blow,
 Which Martyr'd Jove's Vicegerent here below;
 She still pursues him with relentless Hate,
 Arraigns his Memry, and Insults his Fate.

R

'Tis

'Tis She, that wou'd, for ev'ry slight offence,
 Depose a True Hereditary Prince ;
 That wou'd Usurpers for their Treason Crown,
 Till Time and Vengeance drag them headlong down,
 And Exil'd Monarchs Reassert their rightful Throne.

No Constitution in the World can boast
 A Scheme of Laws more Rational, more Just
 Than England's are ; where Sovereign, Kingly sway,
 Is mixt and qualified with such Allay,
 That Free-born Subjects willingly obey :
 Nor yet so basely mixt, as that our Kings
 Are only Tools of State, and Pow'rless things.
 For tho', indeed, they can have no pretence
 With Fundamental Contracts to Dispence,
 (For that were Conquest) yet, those Rights maintain'd,
 Prerogative is High, and unrestrain'd.
 In equal distance from extremes we move,
 No Tyranny, nor Commonwealth approve.
 Nor Tyranny, that Savage Brutal pow'r,
 Which not protects Mankind, but does devour.
 Nor Commonwealth, a Monster, Hydra State,
 Whose many Heads threaten each others Fate,
 And load their Bodies with unweildy weight.
 But a successive Monarchy we own,
 With all the Lawful Sanctions of a Crown.

And

Such was our old Establisht English Frame,
Which might have flourish'd Ages yet the same,
But for this Envious Fiend; who still prepares
To sow the Seed of long Intestine Wars.

Near the Imperial Palace's Remains,
Where nothing now but Desolation Reigns;
(Fatal preface of Monarchy's decline,
And Extirpation of the Regal Line!)
There stands an Antique venerable Pile, Northumberland House
Whose Lords were once the Glories of our Isle:
But now it Mourns the Race of Heroe's dead,
And droops, and hangs its Melancholy Head.
This Pile (howe'er for better Ends design'd,
An Emblem of the Noble Founder's Mind)
Is Faction's Refuge; where she keeps her Court,
Where all her Darling Votaries Resort.
Here, when their Glorious N — fell, they met Nasau
On new Resolves and Measures to Debate.

Say then, my Muse, their secret Thoughts display,
Expose their dark Designs to open Day.

This Grand Caball was held at dead of Night,
(For Ghosts and Furies always shun the Light)
Dispair, and Rage, and Sorrow, kept 'em dumb,
Till Moro rose (the Master of the Dome) Dorchester
A Stamm'ring, Hot, Conceited, Laughing L — ,
Who prov'd his want of Sense in ev'ry word,

When hissing thus, his Fetter'd Tongue broke loose;
 'I take it as an Honour that you've chose
 'For this Debate, your Humble Servant's House.
 'The House henceforward shall Recorded stand,
 'As the Palladium of the sinking Land;
 'And I to future Ages be renown'd,
 'The Party's Bullwark, and the Nations Mound.
 'Now N—, the immortal N—'s gone,
 'We justly his untimely Herse Bemoan.
 'O that I could restore his Life again!
 'For who can bear a Woman's Servile Chain?
 Full of such Stuff, he would have giv'n it vent,
 But that Black Ario's fierceness did prevent.
 A Scotch, Seditious, Unbelieving Priest,
 The Brawny Chaplain of the Calves Head Feast,
 Who first h's Patron, then his Prince Betray'd,
 And does that Church he's Sworn to guard, Invade.
 Warm with Rebellious Rage, he thus began;
 'To talk of Calling Life agen is vain.
 'Peace to the Glirious Dead. We justly mourn
 'His Ashes, ever Sacred be his Urn:
 'But here, my L—, we are together met,
 'To Vow to A—'s Sceptre endless Hate.
 'For since my hope of Winton is expir'd,
 'With just Revenge and Indignation fir'd,
 'I'll write, and talk, and preach her Title down,
 'My Thund'ring Voice shall shake her in the Throne;
 'Do you the Sword, and I'll engage the Gown.

At length, as from the Hollow of an Oak,

The Bulky Primate Yawn'd, and Silence Broke:

'I much approve my Brother's Zealous Heat,

'Such is the Noble Ardour of the Great,

'On which Success and Praise will ever wait,

'But I'm untaught in Politician's Schools,

'Unpractic'd in their Arts and studied Rules;

Then old Mysterio shook his Silver Hairs,

Loaded with Learning, Prophecy, and Years,

Strange

Strange Dotage! thus to sacrifice his Ease,
 When Nature whispers Men to Crown their days
 With sweet Retirement and Religious Peace!
 Fore-knowledge struggled in his heaving Breast,
 Ere he in these dark Terms his Fears exprest.

' The Stars, rowl adverse, and malignant shine,
 ' Some dire Portend! Some Comet I divine!

' I plainly in the Revelations find,

' That A—— to the Beast will be inclin'd.

' Howe're, tho' She and all her Senate frown,

' I'll wage eternal War with Packington,

' And venture Life and Fame to pull him down.

As he went on, his Tongue a trembling seis'd,

And all his Power of Utterance suppress'd.

So when the Witch felt th' Inspiring God,

She raving lost her Voice, and Speechless stood.

Unhappy Church, by such Usurpers sway'd!

How is thy Prim'tive Purity decay'd?

How are thy Prelates chang'd from what they were,

When Laud or Sancroft fill'd the Sacred Chair?

Laud, tho' by some traduc'd, with Zeal adorn'd,

Whilst Patriarch is despis'd and Scorn'd,

Shall be by me for ever Prais'd, for ever Mourn'd.

Sancroft's undimish'd Life, divinely Pure,

In its own heavenly Innocence Secure,

The teeth of Time, the blasts of Envy shall endure.

When for th' Establish'd Faith they should contend,
 Meekness and Christian Charity pretend;
 But with a blind and unbecoming Rage,
 For Schism and Toleration they engage;
 With strange Delight and Eagerness espouse
Occasional Conformists shameful Cause;
 Oppress thy Friends, and Vindicate thy Foes,
 Thy guardian Laws to weaken they Combine,
 And tamely thy Essential Rights resign.
 Thy antient Truths with Modern Glosses blend,
 Destroying the Religion they would mend.

So have they broke thy Pale and Fences down,
 Such Arts have Christianity o'erthrown
 For Scepticism, that now triumphant reigns,
 Condemns her Captive to inglorious Chains,
 Where She Forlorn, Contemn'd, Despairing lies,
 Nor hopes a Refuge, but her Native Skies.

But Muse proceed, nor dwell on Thoughts too long,
 That would enflame thy Satyrizing Song.

Clodio with kindling Emulation heard,
 What this Triumvirate of Priests declar'd,
Clodio, the Chief of all the Rebel Race,
 Uncheck'd by Fear, unhumbled by Disgrace;
 Whose Working, Turbulent, Fanatick Mind
 No Tenderness can move, no Ties can bind.
 To gain a Rake he'll Drink, and Whore, and Rant,
 T'engage a Puritan will Pray and Cant.

So

So Satan can in differing Forms appear,
 Or Radiant Light, or gloomy Darkneſs wear.
 Thrice he Blaſphem'd, and thrice he frantick Swore
 By ev'ry Terrible Infernal Pow'r,
 Then wav'd his Staff, and ſaid:
 ' Tho' N——'s Death has all our Measures broke,
 ' Yet never will we bend to A——'s Yoke.
 ' The glorious Revolution was in vain,
 ' If Monarchy once more its Rights regain.
 ' Let all be Chaos, and Confuſion all,

 So Catiline the Fate of Rome design'd,
 And when h' had form'd the Scheme within his mind,
 In such a warm Harangue his Friends address,
 And open'd all the Secret of his Breast.
 This hit Sigillo's Thoughts, and made him cool, To Somers

 In passing ev'ry Plund'ring Courtier's Grants.
 He is (for Satyr dares the Truth declare)
 Deist, Republican, Adulterer.

Thus his lov'd Clodio, for his Speech he prais'd,

Such Celsus is, but I foresee his Fate
 To be subplanted by Sempronia's Hate,
 (Sempronia of a Lewd procuring Race,
 The Senate's Grievance, and the Court's Disgrace.)
 'Tis well he cannot long his Ground maintain,
 For Hell would then employ her Fiend in vain.
 He never knew to prostitute the State,
 Never by being Guilty to be Great.
 Nor yet when publick Storms came rowling on,
 Did he or Danger or his Duty shun.
 Rome's subtle Priests with Sophistry essay'd
 With Wealth and Honour in the Ballance lay'd,
 To shock his Faith; but nothing could controul
 The firm Resolves of his unbiass'd Soul,
 True to his Conscience, as the Needle to the Pole,
 Ally'd in Blood and Friendship to the Throne,
 He nobly makes his Country's Cause his own;
 Whilst others keep their int'rest still in view,
 And meaner Spirits meaner ends pursue.
 So the fixt Stars harmoniously comply
 With the first Publick Motion of the Sky,
 Whilst wand'ring Planets oppositely move,
 Within the narrow Orbs of private Love.
 She stopp'd— for now her Anger 'gan to rise,
 Flush'd in her Cheeks, and sparkl'd in her Eyes.
 And well it might a Fury's Passion raise,
 That she was forc'd the Worth, she hates, to Praise.
 The Dawn dispers'd the Crowd, she took her flight.
 To the low Regions of Eternal Night.

O England how revolving is thy State?
 How few thy Blessings? How severe thy Fate?
 O destin'd Nation, to be thus betray'd
 By those, whose Duty 'tis to serve and aid!
 A griping vile degenerate viper Brood,
 That tear thy Vitals, and exhaust thy Blood.
 A varying Kind, that no fixt Rule pursue,
 But often form their Principles anew;
 Unknowing where to lodge supreme Command,
 Or in the King, or Peers, or People's Sov'raignty they own,
 To vex and load a Peaceful Monarch's Crown;
 Who to his Subjects when at length Restor'd,
 Whithout distinction was their Common Lord.
 What Party else to David's happy Throne,
 Would have preferr'd a giddy Abfalon?
 But when a King is moulded to their Mind,
 Then they to him would have all sway confin'd;
 Nor in their own despotick boundless Reign,
 Of Injur'd Rights, and Property complain:
 Nay with a Standing Force thy Sons would awe,
 The Subjects Slavery, the Tyrant's Law.
 But if nor King nor Commons will comply
 With their detested Acts of Villany.
 They strive the Peers declining Pow'r to raise,
 And get Impeachments voted into Praise.
 Blest Patriots these, who Liberty employ,
 To elude thy Laws, and Liberty destroy!

Where:

Where is the Noble Roman Spirit fled,
 Which once inspir'd thy ancient Patriots dead?
 Who were above all private Ends, and joy'd,
 When bravely for the publick Weal they dy'd:
 Who spread, like Branching Oaks, their Arms around,
 To shelter and Protect the Parent Ground;
 Tho' Storms of Thunder rattl'd o're their Head,
 Yet all was safe beneath their Guardian Shade,
 Or sure Historians on our Faith impose,
 And never such a Race of Men arose;
 Or Nodding Nature to a Period draws,
 Or Providence incens'd by Guilty Times,
 With-holds his Grace, and dooms us to our Crimes.

Pardon (for Harmony will bring Relief,
 Will sooth thy anxious Cares, and charm thy Grief)
 If my Condoling Mournful Muse presume
 To visit thy Marcellus Sacred Tomb.
 For his Hereditary Gifts alone
 Could have Retriev'd thy Fame, and carried down
 The Glorious Scene of Triumphs Anna has begun.
 O may thy Angel Guard her Royal Mind,
 That Fav'rites nor Seduce, nor Trimmers Blind.
 For 'tis on Her thy Church and State depend,
 With Her will Flourish, and with Her will End.
 But my shok'd Thoughts the sad Idea shun,
 (The sad Idea gives Eternal Moan.)

When

When she shall late, but ah! to soon comply
 With Nature, to Adorn her Kindred Sky.
 For who can then pretend to wear her Crown?
 Who represent the Mother, but the Son?
 O! had the Pow'r, that governs humane Fate,
 His years extended to a longer Date,
 To what transcendence had his Genius sprung,
 Which was so Ripe, so Perfect, yet so Young;
 But when fresh blooming Youth seem'd to proclaim
 The lasting Structure of his Beauteous Frame,
 When Health and Vigour with a kind presage,
 Promis'd the hoary happiness of Age;
 Then with a Momentary swift decay,
 Thy Pride, thy darling Hope was snatch'd away.
 So, by the Course of the revolving Sphears,
 Whene'er a new discover'd Star appears,
 Astronomers with Pleasure and Amaze
 Upon the Infant Luminary gaze.
 They find their Heav'n enlarg'd, and wait from thence
 Some Bless'd, some more than common Influence,
 But suddenly alas! the fleeting Light
 Retiring leaves their Hopes involv'd in endless Night.
